Introductory Emotional Intelligence Human Relations Skills Training

with Jenny Stephens and Patti Kenney

May 14, 2015

9:30am to 3:30pm

Lunch included

$75 with lunch if you register by April 16

$85 if you register April 16

Registration deadline is May 7

In this workshop, participants will develop an understanding of the definition of emotional intelligence (EQ) and how it may be developed and used in interacting with groups in ministry settings. Through presentations, small group interaction, and multimedia, participants will:

- Develop an understanding of brain functioning and its relationship to EQ
- See the impact of EQ played out in group dynamics
- Explore how EQ has a physical impact, relationship impact, and workplace impact
- Do an EQ self-assessment
- Learn about the Johari window as a tool for self-reflection

- Discuss how emotional intelligence can affect ministry effectiveness
- Engage in reflective practice, evaluation, and learn about opportunities for further training

JENNY STEPHENS

Jenny Stephens is an ordained minister with The United Church of Canada and serves as the Personnel Minister of Hamilton Conference. Jenny is a trained Educational Supervisor and Intentional Interim Minister. Her background in scientific research brings transferable skills in gathering and analyzing information, generating options and implementing projects. Jenny is delighted by the experience of training in Emotional Intelligence, both for personal growth and for investing in the effectiveness of current ministry personnel. An intern trainer in the program, as well as Chair of the Program, Staffing and Coaching Team, Jenny feels privileged to serve on the Board of the EQ-HR Center and to partner in expanding opportunities for Canadian leaders within faith communities to experience the program in their own country.

PATTI KENNEY

Patti Kenney is an ordained minister with the United Church of Christ and serves as the pastor and teacher of St. Paul UCC in Saline, Michigan. Patti designs and coordinates programs for church leaders through Sustaining Pastoral Excellence at St. Francis Retreat Center in DeWitt, Michigan. Patti is a trained spiritual director and convenes a spiritual direction supervision group. She has provided oversight for a number of seminary interns during their ministry practicum year. Patti finds training in emotional intelligence to be a key resource in working with congregations and church leaders in this dynamic time of change in church life. A senior trainer and dean in the program, Patti serves on the Program, Staffing and Coaching Team.

Jesus and the Cornerstone Concept: Differentiation of Self with Robert Creech

September 24, 2015

9:30am to 3:30pm

Lunch included

$85 with lunch if you register by August 15, 2015

$100 if you register after August 15, 2015

Registration deadline is September 15, 2015

Dr. Murray Bowen labeled the concept of "differentiation of self" as the cornerstone concept of his theory of human behavior. In his theoretical scale of differentiation, Bowen said that 100 on the scale was reserved for "that perfect human being," whose ability to manage emotional reactivity was complete.

Given Christian theology's emphasis on Jesus as the "fully human:" one, the Second Adam, what might we learn from his life about the nature of differentiation? How might his shape our understanding of spiritual formation? The primary focus of the day will be exploring the meaning of differentiation and the evidence of its presence in the gospel accounts of Jesus' life and teaching. Dr. Creech is Professor of Pastoral Leadership and Christian Ministry at George W. Truett Theological Seminary, Baylor University, Waco Texas. He has co-authored The Leader's Journey. He also trains clergy in the Center for the Study of Natural Systems and the Family "Defining Leaders." A three-year program of coaching and teaching.
